Background

Volunteers, like paid employees, are a public face of the Council they represent. Even though they give their time freely, volunteers are still a part of the overall structure of the Council they work within.

Rights and responsibilities set the standards of a volunteer program within any Council and assist both the Council and each volunteer to abide by the philosophy and ethos of the Council.

The Council has a significant commitment to its volunteers and has substantial responsibilities towards them, including recognising the National Standards for Involving Volunteers in Not for Profit Organisations. Volunteers also have rights, which are contained in legislation.

Volunteers have the same level of responsibility as the paid workforce with regard to behaviour and activities while carrying out duties for the Council.

Volunteering is work which is of benefit to the community done of one's own free will, and done without monetary reward.

Volunteers play an integral role within society by initiating and enhancing the services provided by employed staff, without being a substitute for paid work.

Purpose

This document sets out the standard of conduct expected of all volunteers registered with Alexandrina Council's Volunteer Program.

Scope

The standards outlined in this document relate to all volunteers registered with the Council and are in addition to any statutory requirements of the Local Government Act (SA) 1999.

Definition

Volunteer means a person who willingly provides unpaid help in the form of time, service or skills through the Council's volunteer program.

CODE OF CONDUCT

General duty of Volunteers

In addition to all legislative requirements and any specific directions or guidance provided by Alexandrina Council, volunteers should recognise the requirements of this Code of Conduct as the standards to be adopted in the performance of the volunteer role.

Principles of this Code of Conduct

There are three broad principles that underpin the ethics and standards of conduct of volunteers engaged in Local Government:

- Integrity
- Respect
- Accountability.

Integrity

Volunteers must act in a fair, honest and proper manner according to the law when carrying out their roles. This includes, but is not limited to:

- behaving in a reasonable, just and non-discriminatory way
- acting in good faith and not for improper or ulterior motives
- adhering to the guidelines that relate to the acceptance of gifts and gratuities
- being able to formally identify themselves as a registered Council volunteer at all times.

Volunteers must act with reasonable care and be diligent in the performance of their role, ensuring they:

- carry out lawful policies, instructions and decisions of their designated supervisor in a respectful manner
- in so far as is reasonably practical, based on individual experience and training, be aware of the effectiveness and efficiency of the activities and services for which they are responsible.

Volunteers must guard against a conflict of interest by:

- abiding by Council's guidelines and policies regarding receiving gifts, benefits or reimbursements
- ensuring that personal interest does not improperly influence the way in which they carry out duties
- declaring any known conflict of interest and not participating in any decision-making process where there is a conflict of interest.

Respect

Volunteers must be fair, honest and transparent in dealings with individuals and organisations and behave in a manner that facilitates constructive communication between Council, staff, other volunteers and the community.

This means volunteers will:

- be honest and fair with all members of the community
- demonstrate courteous and sensitive behaviour that does not discriminate against people
- be aware of and disclose any situation that may create conflict between their voluntary roles and their personal interests
- guard against the misuse of a volunteer position to gain an advantage for themselves or others

- be punctual and reliable
- advise the designated supervisor in a timely manner if unable to perform the role for any reason.

If representing Council in the community, volunteers will:

- provide an accurate and fair representation of Council decisions
- abide by Council's Communications Policy and do not make any statement on behalf of Council to the media, unless delegated by the Chief Executive Officer
- conduct themselves in a manner that will not reflect unfavourably on the Council
- dress appropriately and to the safety standard for their role.

Volunteers will seek to achieve a team approach in an environment of mutual respect, trust and acceptance of their different roles in achieving the Council's objectives by:

- seeking to develop a relationship with fellow volunteers and staff that is cooperative, productive and constructive and based on mutual trust and respect
- conducting the relationship with courtesy and respect
- acknowledging the value of diversity and the right of all points of view to be heard and considered
- contributing to a working environment that is free from harassment or bullying.

Accountability

Volunteers understand that:

- information obtained by a volunteer as a result of his or her role is not to be wilfully disclosed for any purpose that may result in an adverse impact on Council
- volunteers will not make comments to the media unless authorised by the Chief Executive Officer or appropriate delegate as outlined in the Council's Communications Policy
- they must respect and maintain the confidentiality of information that volunteers have as a result of their role at Council (not being information that is generally available to the public) and acknowledge this obligation extends beyond the term of their engagement
- the Council is committed to protecting the privacy of individuals. Although the Privacy Act 1988 does not directly apply to councils within South Australia, its principles are respected to ensure an appropriate standard is applied within the Council
- upon leaving Council, they have no right to any information contained in Council's e-mail or network file systems.

Volunteers must use Council resources in a proper and responsible way by:

- being mindful of the way in which resources are deployed
- giving consideration to budget provisions and guarding against wasteful practices
- ensuring that resources are used in the community's interest
- avoiding the wilful damage of Council property,
- use the Council's information technology systems in accordance with the Information Technology Usage Guidelines.

Compliance with this Code of Conduct

Volunteers are personally responsible for ensuring their compliance with this Code of Conduct.

Council staff supervising volunteers are responsible for monitoring volunteer compliance with this Code of Conduct.

Questions of compliance raised by other volunteers, staff, Elected Members and members of the community regarding this Code will be considered by the Chief Executive Officer or his/her nominee, in accordance with Council's complaints handling processes.

Volunteers are entitled to representation in the consideration of an allegation of non-compliance against them. Investigation and management of the matter will have regard to the principles of fairness, equity and natural justice.

Volunteers may be public officers for the purposes of the ICAC Act. Conduct which breaches this Code may be misconduct under the ICAC Act.

Investigations undertaken by Council regarding compliance with this Code of Conduct will be kept confidential, except where there is a legislative requirement to report information relating to the investigation.

The consequences of breaching the Code may result in a verbal or written warning, suspension or termination of volunteer engagement. If a volunteer is found to have committed serious misconduct it may result in 'termination effective immediately' and/or referral to an appropriate law enforcement agency.

Training

Council is committed to providing information and training to its volunteers to ensure that they understand the requirements of this Code of Conduct.

RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Volunteers have the right to:

- be treated fairly and respectfully and as an important member of the team
- be recruited in accordance with equal opportunity and anti-discrimination legislation

Council has a right to:

- retain the personal information of volunteers in line with best practice standards
- make decisions about the placement of volunteers
- review volunteer performance according to Council policies and procedures
- expect volunteers to perform given tasks to the best of their ability
- expect from all volunteers respect and courtesy towards clients, paid and voluntary staff and other stakeholders
- establish the parameters and guidelines of volunteer roles
- refuse a volunteer placement or to end a placement if:
 - there is a perceived risk to the customer or volunteer health or welfare
 - suitable volunteer duties are not available, or no longer available
 - the volunteer does not comply with Council policy and procedures, including this Code
 - the volunteer does not comply with the role or position statement
 - the volunteer is not covered by the Council's personal accident insurance or other relevant insurance.

Council has a responsibility to:

- approve any reasonably practicable budgetary expenditure necessary for the effective and efficient management of volunteers
- implement a volunteer management system that meets the best practice management of volunteers, and meets audit and legislative requirements
- ensure the staff supervising volunteers have the skills and capacity to do so effectively
- retain volunteer personal information in a secure and safe system to ensure volunteer privacy
- provide any necessary training to volunteers or staff with the responsibility for managing volunteers
- set clear lines of communication about complaints and conflict resolution procedures
- provide working conditions that meet safe work standards
- include volunteers in relevant decision making processes
- provide supervision and support by an appropriately skilled staff member
- provide emergency procedures guidelines
- provide clear policies relating to the role of volunteers and their management within the Council
- recognise the vital role volunteers have within their organisation.
